

R.E.A.D.

R - Remember to read various text types including books, articles, and poetry.

E - Explain what you are reading to others.

A - Ask questions about the parts you don't understand.

D - Determine the meaning of unknown words.

R	E	A	D
R Remember to read various text types including books, articles, and poetry.	E Explain what you are reading to others.	A Ask questions about the parts you don't understand.	D Determine the meaning of unknown words.
Try to vary what you are reading between fiction and non-fiction. Consider starting a virtual book club. Read something just for fun to a younger sibling.	Have discussions about what you read; either with others who have read it or explain the content to a parent or younger sibling.	Ask about the content, concepts, or outcomes. Make sure you stay connected with your teacher regarding any questions you have.	When you come across a word in text that you don't know, look it up! Keep a log of unknown words to create a personal glossary. See if you can stump a family member and see if they know the word!

WEBSITES:

www.khanacademy.org

www.floridastudents.org

www.commonlit.org

www.newsela.com

www.brightfishlearning.com

www.readtheory.org

APPS:

DuoLingo

Power Vocab Word Game

Figment

Teen Ink

Drafting Board

CiteLighter

Word Dynamo

Spell Tower

Comics Head

Write about an important adult in your life. Think about how they have influenced you. If possible, consider asking them who influenced their life.

Watch a TV show or TikTok. Afterward, write about the part you liked the best and why. Challenge your parents to the same and compare your answers

Keep a journal detailing what your days look like while you are practicing distance learning. What do you like? What is easier? What is more difficult? What is the most boring?

NOW, LET'S WRITE!

